This fine art photography project leads us on a journey with art consultants as they bring work into client's houses in the Bay Area and their weekend homes in Tahoe.

Freeberg documents the clients, children, household workers, pets and art consultants that become unwitting actors in tableaux that reflect the times we live in.

Advisor is the fourth photographic series depicting Freeberg's insightful, witty and irreverent exploration of the art world.

Sentry, showed us the giant entry desks of the Chelsea contemporary art galleries in NYC. Guardians, was a series about the older women that protect the art in the great museums of Russia. In Art Fare you can see dealers in their booths at fairs meeting with collectors, selling and negotiating, as if in living dioramas where the art world plays itself.
